Dear Plotholders,

We hope you are all well.

Some sad news to report for those of you that knew these two plotholders, Mr Hy passed away recently due to Covid -19 and Mr Barak passed away earlier in the year.

The lockdown seems to be easing however, we would like to remind you all of social distancing and about not bringing family and friends onto the site, unless you are living together. We have plotholders of all age's on our site and we don't want a sudden influx of unfamiliar people coming in that don't usually come, it is very disconcerting for all of us.

Please remember that there is still a ban on bonfires of any kind – they are not allowed! If you have a BBQ, keep it small and contained please.

We have a port-o-loo for the summer and you will find it over in the carpark nearest to Tesco. It is cleaned weekly by the company and has hand sanitizer inside for you to use.

Can we also remind you not to give the padlock code out to anyone and to scramble the numbers after you arrive or leave and ALWAYS close and lock the gate after you leave or enter.

If you wear gloves when you arrive or leave to open the gate can you PLEASE take them away with you. A number of ploholders have complained about these gloves being dropped in the car park or by the gate. Not quite sure who you think should be picking these up after you?? TAKE YOUR GLOVES HOME WITH YOU!

As some of you know we ran out of compost a few weeks ago. It was ordered as soon as we ran out but since the garden centres all opened the demand has been huge and we have simply had to wait in a queue for our delivery. So be patient, it is on its way – either this week or early next week!

Many thanks and happy gardening
